Team played into submission

The University of the Free State (UFS) Shimlas demolished the Central University of Technology (CUT), Free State, Ixias 71 - 19 in a Bloemfontein derby.

The two-time champions claimed maximum points and the bragging rights in emphatic fashion during round three of the Varsity Cup.

The Shimlas went full Neanderthal. Forget the flashy backline moves; this was about rolling mauls, dominant set-pieces, and physical intimidation at the coalface.

Junior Springbok scrumhalf Erich Visser set the tone early, darting over following a thunderous maul that left the Ixias defenders scrambling. This warning shot went unheeded. The Ixias' penalty count spiralled out of control, and the Shimlas showed no mercy.

Hooker Jaco Bezuidenhout became the star of the show, crashing over for a hat-trick, all from lineout mauls. The Ixias' defence splintered like cheap wood under the relentless pressure.

Flanker Ferdi Vergottini joined the party with a brace before the break, capitalising on yet more ill-discipline from the Ixias. Captain Henri van Heerden added his name to the scoresheet during a powerplay, and by half-time, the scoreboard read 42 - 0. The Ixias supporters were stunned into silence.

If the Ixias hoped for respite after the interval, they were sorely mistaken. Just four minutes into the second half, the referee awarded a penalty try to the Shimlas.

Vergottini completed his hat-trick shortly after in what was described as a rare appearance for the flanker, proving once again that the Shimlas' forward pack was operating on a different level entirely.

To their credit, the Ixias finally found their voice. Centre Winton Abrahams broke the duck, scoring the first of his brace and sparking a brief purple patch for the visitors.

Tiaan Kriek added a converted try, and suddenly the Ixias began playing with freedom. Devinto Vergotine crossed before Abrahams produced the moment of the match for the CUT, a stunning point-of-origin try, running the length of the field to score. It was a flash of brilliance in an otherwise torrid evening.

This was the UFS's night, and they were not about to let their neighbours steal the narrative. Replacement hooker Marnus Winter crashed over following yet another penalty-driven set-piece, before lock Marno Stopforth powered over for a powerplay try to rub salt in gaping wounds.

The Ixias will play against the University of Pretoria (UP) Tuks on Monday 9 March at 19:00, while the Shimlas face the North-West University (NWU) Eagles on the Bloemfontein team's home turf.
